Biographical Note:

Rose Hawthorne Lathrop was born in Lenox, Massachusetts on May 20, 1851, the youngest child of Nathaniel Hawthorne and Sophia Peabody Hawthorne. Her early years were spent in Europe while her father served as American consul in Liverpool. After returning to the United States, the family settled in Concord in 1860. Her education, which began in England under the supervision of private tutors and governesses, continued at Dio Lewis' school in Lexington. She later attended schools in Lee, Massachusetts and in Salem. In 1868, four years after her husband's death, Sophia Hawthorne moved her family to Dresden, primarily for financial reasons. There, Rose Hawthorne met George Parsons Lathrop, an American also living abroad with his family. On September 11, 1871, Rose and George were married in London. The couple soon returned to the U.S. and in 1876 their son Francis "Francie" Hawthorne Lathrop was born. The Lathrops returned to Concord where they purchased the Wayside, Rose's childhood home. After Francie died suddenly of diphtheria in 1881, the couple left Concord and after spending a short time in Europe, moved to New York where Rose began to focus in earnest on her literary career. Her poems and short stories were published in Harpers Weekly, The Atlantic Monthly, and the Century Magazine. Soon, George Lathrop's health began to decline, most likely as a result of alcoholism.

The couple left the city for New London, Connecticut in 1887 where they developed a friendship with Alfred and Adelaide Chappell, whose Catholic faith would have a great affect over the Lathrops. In 1891, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop and her husband were received into the Catholic faith at the Church of St. Paul the Apostle in New York City. Plagued continually by debt and grief over the loss of their only child, the Lathrop's marriage had suffered much over the years. In spite of their new faith, the marriage would not survive, and in 1895, the couple separated permanently.

Resolving to dedicate her life to caring for the cancerous poor, Rose took a three-month nursing course at the New York Cancer Hospital. In September of 1896, she rented a flat on Scammel Street on New York's Lower East Side where she began nursing cancer patients. This space proved inadequate and soon moved to a larger place on Water Street. In 1898, she was joined in her work by Alice Huber, a partnership that would continue for the rest of her life. Upon the urging of Fr. Clement Thuente, a young Dominican priest who had visited their home, the two women became Dominican Tertiaries in 1899. (The death of George Lathrop in 1898 had made this event possible.) Rose Hawthorne Lathrop became Sister Mary Alphonsa. Archbishop Corrigan granted permission in 1900 for the two women to wear the Dominican Habit, profess their vows and form a religious community. Sister Alphonsa and Sister Rose took their first vows on December 8, 1900, adopting the Rule of the Dominican Order. In 1901, the community was incorporated in the State of New York as the Servants of Relief for Incurable Cancer. Mother Alphonsa founded a second home, Rosary Hill, in 1901 in Hawthorne, New York. For the rest of her life she continued her work with the cancerous poor, initiating several building projects and raising funds for the Community and its work. Mother Alphonsa died in her sleep on July 9, 1926.

Scope and Content:

This collection is made up of seven series: biographical materials, memorabilia, correspondence, writings by Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, writings about Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, family papers and books. The biographical material and memorabilia include legal documents and personal mementos relating to Mrs. Lathrop's marriage to George P. Lathrop, and to her son, Francis Hawthorne Lathrop, as well as materials related to Mother Alphonsa's death. Much of the collection is made up of correspondence, including personal letters from the years before her conversion and professional correspondence pertaining to her literary career. The community correspondence documents her work among the cancerous poor from its beginnings on the Lower East Side in 1896 through Mother Alphonsa's death at Rosary Hill in 1926. Writings by Rose Hawthorne Lathrop include handwritten manuscripts and poetry, as well as spiritual writings and essays on her work with cancer patients. Writings about Rose Hawthorne Lathrop are made up of books, magazine and newspapers articles, and sermons written between 1904 and 2012. Family papers consists of writings and sketches by Sophia Peabody Hawthorne, as well as letters between RHL's aunts Mary Peabody Mann and Elizabeth Palmer Peabody. The series also includes correspondence of Julian Hawthorne and George P. Lathrop.

Finally, this series includes papers regarding her death and burial in 1926 as well as the disinterment and reburial of Mother Alphonsa and Mother Mary Rose Huber at Rosary Hill Home in 1975.

Series 2

Memorabilia

Box 1, Folders 20-38

Dates: 1871-1924

Arrangement: Chronological

This series includes a note and drawings made for her father when she was a child. Mementos of her son Francie include locks of his hair, his drawings, and flowers from his grave. There is also a palm frond given to Mrs. Lathrop by her husband on Palm Sunday, 1895. This series also consists of cards and spiritual bouquets for Mother Alphonsa's Feast Days and her Silver Jubilee, as well as holy cards inscribed from Mother Rose.

Series 3

Correspondence

6 Hollinger boxes, 11 flat storage boxes

Dates: 1856-1926

Arrangement: Alphabetical and chronological by sub-series

Correspondence is divided into five sub-series: family correspondence, personal correspondence, early work with the cancerous poor (1896-1900), community correspondence (1901-1926) and letters between Mother M. Alphonsa and Mother M. Rose Huber (1898-1926).

Family correspondence consists of letters between Rose Hawthorne Lathrop and her immediate family, as well as members of the Manning and Mann families. Correspondents include Nathaniel Hawthorne, Sophia Peabody Hawthorne, Elizabeth Manning Hawthorne, Elizabeth Palmer Peabody, Mary Peabody Mann, Julian Hawthorne, and George Parsons Lathrop. This series includes only letters to or from Rose Hawthorne Lathrop. For correspondence between other family members, please refer to Series 6, Family Papers.

Personal correspondence consists of letters to and from childhood friends, letters from editors and publishers regarding Mrs. Lathrop's writing career, letters from members of the New York literary circles frequented by the Lathrop's in the 1880's, letters concerning the Lathrop's conversion, and letters from Mother Alphonsa to members of Mother Rose Huber's family. Correspondents include: William Henry Channing, George W. Childs, Mary Mapes Dodge, Helena deKay Gilder, Richard Watson Gilder, Emma Lazarus and Augusta St. Gaudens.

Early work consists of correspondence from RHL's first five years working with the cancerous poor. This sub-series includes letters from young women wishing to help Mrs. Lathrop with her work, letters from priests offering donations and words of encouragement, letters of appeal from patients and their families and early letters from Archbishop Michael Corrigan regarding the establishment of a chapter of Dominican Tertiaries in 1899. Finally, there are letters of advice from Father Clement M. Thuente about affiliating with the Third Order of St. Dominic.

Community correspondence consists of letters to and from Mother Alphonsa pertaining to her work with the cancerous poor and to religious community life from 1901-1926. The letters written by Mother Alphonsa consist primarily of appeals for as well as acknowledgement of donations to the Community and to the purchase of property in Hawthorne, New York that would be used to build the new, fireproof Rosary Hill Home. Letters to Mother Alphonsa include many from clergy with words of support, often accompanied by donations. Official correspondence includes letters from Archbishop Corrigan providing permission to receive postulants and to purchase Rosary Hill, as well as letters from Archbishop John Cardinal Farley and Archbishop Patrick Cardinal Hayes regarding permission for building projects at St. Rose's and Rosary Hill. This sub-series also includes many letters answering Mother Alphonsa's appeals for donations published in her newsletter Christ's Poor. Correspondents include: Fr. Hyacinth M. Cormier, O.P., Msgr. John Edwards, Bishop John J. Dunn, Brother Joseph Dutton, J. Warren Greene, Blessed Mary Elizabeth Hesselblad, Mother M. Rose Huber, Mother Mary Joseph, M.M., Brother Julian, Fr. Clement M. Thuente, O.P., Bishop James A. Walsh, M.M., Rev. Eugene A. Wilson, O.P.

Letters between Mother M. Alphonsa and Mother M. Rose Huber document the close personal and working relationship of the community's two foundresses and were composed over approximately thirty years. Transcriptions of these letters are available in the Archives.

Series 4

Writings by Rose Hawthorne Lathrop

3 boxes

Dates: 1870-1926

Arrangement: Chronological by sub-series

This series is made up of six sub-series: notebooks and diaries, writings on work with the cancerous poor, spiritual writing, poetry, published writing, and handwritten manuscripts. Passages in the 1893 diary offers insight into the spiritual life of RHL shortly after her conversion and include entries on spiritual readings, novenas offered, and attendance at Mass. The 1896-1899 diary entitled “Items in my experience of association with the poor as a Servant of Relief” begins in September of 1896 with the early work on Scammel Street and ends in April 1899 with plans for the move to St. Rose’s Home on Cherry Street. Writings on work with the cancerous poor were written by Mother Alphonsa as public appeals for financial assistance and provide an excellent history of the early work. (See also Christ’s Poor, 1901-1904 and Reports of the Servants of Relief for Incurable Cancer, 1913-1924. All issues available in Archives.)

Biographical Note:

Alice Huber was born on November 29, 1861 in Jasper Indiana, the daughter of Dr. Matthew and Sarah Jane Huber. When she was nine years old, the family moved to Louisville, Kentucky. After attending Catholic boarding schools in Springfield and Louisville, Alice taught school for several years and studied art. Around this time, she became acquainted with the Passionists Father Fidelis (James Kent Stone) and Father Edmund Hill, both of whom would become her lifelong friends. She attended business school for a short time, and then transferred to the Conservatory of Fine Arts in Cincinnati. After a few more years of teaching, Alice made the decision to move to New York. She first resided at the retreatants' apartments at the Monastery of the Precious Blood and then on Putnam Street in Brooklyn. In November of 1897, Alice read a newspaper appeal by Rose Hawthorne Lathrop describing her need for women to help in her work with the cancerous poor. She contacted Fr. Fidelis, who provided her with a letter of introduction to Mrs. Lathrop.

Mother M. Rose Huber Papers

The two women met in December, and though finding the Water Street apartment bleak, she agreed to help Mrs. Lathrop one afternoon a week. A few months later, Alice moved into the tiny apartment with the intention of devoting herself full time to the work with Mrs. Lathrop.

Upon the urging of Fr. Clement Thuente, a young Dominican priest who had visited their home, the two women became Dominican Tertiaries in 1899. Alice Huber became Sister Mary Rose. In May of 1899, the women opened a new larger home on Cherry Street, named in honor of their patron, St. Rose of Lima. Archbishop Corrigan granted permission in 1900 for Sister Alphonsa and Sister Rose to wear the Dominican Habit, to profess their vows and to form a religious community. The two women took their first vows on December 8, 1900, adopting the Rule of the Dominican Order. After Rosary Hill Home opened in 1901, Sister Rose became the superior of St. Rose's Home. Following the death of Mother Alphonsa in 1926, she became Mother General. During Mother Rose tenure, four new homes opened: Philadelphia; Fall River, Massachusetts; Atlanta; and St. Paul, Minnesota. Mother Rose died on September 30, 1942.
